INTRODUCTION

Purpose of Databook

United Way of Greater Los Angeles publishes zip code data for use in small area planning as part of its bi-annual State of the County Report. As more organizations have started using Los Angeles County Service Planning Areas (SPAs) as a basic geographic unit, there has been a growing need for SPA data. The 2003 Zip Code Databook provides data from the 2000 Census, as well as the most recent data available from state and county public agencies.

How the Databook is Organized

Zip Codes and other sub-county areas such as cities and police jurisdictions are grouped into communities and arranged by SPAs. The map and numerical list of zip codes on the following pages show how zip codes are assigned to communities and SPAs. To locate data for a specific Zip Code, find it on the list and then go to the databook section for the SPA and community name shown for that Zip Code. Each databook contains a set of statistics and maps on topics such as age, ethnicity, income, employment, births and deaths. The databooks provide information for the most recent year for which data are available, and specific data sources are shown in footnotes for each table.

Report Formats

- Printed countywide databook including all eight SPAs
- Internet files for individual SPAs can be printed or downloaded from United Way web site, including tables for all Zip Codes (not grouped into SPAs). Data from the web site are in PDF files. (Hard copy databooks for single SPAs are no longer available.)
- CD ROM with Excel files - also includes State of the County Report and executive summary, A Tale of Two Cities.

How to Get Updated Data and Maps

As additional data and maps become available, new or updated material will be posted on the United Way web site, and can be printed or downloaded without charge. Register on the web site to be notified when new information becomes available. (Registration information is not used to solicit contributions nor shared with other organizations.)
